Sunlight Dancing on Parquet

In a corner of the city where Jacaranda trees form a violet canopy each spring, stands a building that remembers the bold geometric optimism of the 1980s Art Deco revival.

Behind its distinctive facade, a one-bedroom haven awaits.

Step inside to find sunlight spilling across honey-toned parquet floors that flow through the living spaces, creating a warm canvas for your life to unfold upon. The bedroom offers a peaceful retreat, where morning light filters through the trees outside.

The kitchen stands as a testament to thoughtful design—clean lines and custom cabinetry frame the electric cooking space, with dedicated areas for your refrigerator and washing machine. The stone countertops reflect the kitchen's commitment to both beauty and function.

The enclosed balcony—a borderland between...
